LIGHTNING BOLT SHUTS OFF CITY POWER SUPPLY

Street Car Service Stopped, Fire Alarm System Crippled by Storm

SERVICE LINE BURNED

Telephone Wires Melted as High Tension Line Crashes from Poles

A high tension wire carrying 11,000 volts of electricity was burned shutting off the city's power supply for more than a half hour, a light fixture in the bath room of a dwelling was melted, 20 fire alarm boxes in the west section of the city were put out of commission temporarily and numerous telephones in the same locality were disconnected by lightning which accompanied the severe rain and electrical storm here yesterday afternoon.

Street Cars Stopped

City street car service was at a standstill and all electrical equipment in the city was out of commission during the half hour or more required for linemen to repair the high tension wire which connects the city with the C. D. & M. power station near Newmans.

A second storm which followed two hours later was of less severity and caused little damage although rain fell in torrents.

During the height of the first storm which broke about 2 o'clock lightning struck the high tension wire on Davids st. near Sugar. The wire was burned and as it fell in two parts to the ground it melted a large number of telephone wires with which the two sections came in contact making a spectacular electrical display. As the ends of the wire struck the wet street, they fell in a puddle of water sending up a geyser of boiling water which continued until the power was shut off at the plant.

Has Narrow Escape

J. C. Macken division superintendent of the C. D. & M. who was driving his machine near Sugar st. at the time was showered by broken telephone wires but both the car and the driver escaped injury. The city's car service was tied up for more than a half hour while linemen repaired the broken wire.

A short time after the flash of lightning which struck the high tension wire a second bolt followed an electric wire into the bathroom at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis McDavis, 692 Davids st. melting a bath room fixture and setting fire to the wiring.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McDavis who was in the room at the time suffered a severe shock from the electricity.

Firemen from the central and No. 2 stations answered a call sent in by members of the family but found no damage other than to the fixture and wiring.

Alarm System Hit

Twenty fire alarm boxes were put out of commission temporarily when lightning blew out five fuses in the circuit in southwest Marion.

Numerous telephones were also crippled temporarily when the wires were burned off by the high tension wires.

DONAHEY SEEKS TO REOPEN MINE WAGES PARLEY

Asks Indiana and Illinois Governors To Co-Operate with Him

SETTLEMENT URGENT

Executive's Investigator to Probe Clash of Workers at Newport

Columbus, Aug. 2—Gov. Vic Donahey today asked Governors Ed Jackson of Indiana and Len Small of Illinois to join with him in an effort to have union miners and operators in the central competitive field resume negotiations of the Miami wage conference.

Donahey, it was said at the governor's office, does not contemplate interference in the economic dispute between operators and miners, but is seeking the cooperation of Jackson and Small to reopen negotiations which brought about the cessation of union mine operations in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois when workers and their employers failed to reach a wage agreement.

"The coal situation in Ohio," Donahey telegraphed the governors of Indiana and Illinois, "is reaching the point where public welfare demands the breaking of the deadlock between the United Mine Workers of America and the operators. I am told that the same conditions prevail in Indiana and Illinois.

"Will you join me in requesting the reconvening of the interstate conference of miners and operators?

RENOUNCES ALL CLAIM TO G. O. P. NOMINATION

President Makes Terse and Dramatic Statement to Correspondents

WAVES AWAY REPORTERS

Refuses To Amplify Declaration Made on Sheet of Flimsy Paper

Rapid City, S. D., Aug. 2—Calvin Coolidge, in terse and dramatic fashion today renounced all claim to the Republican nomination for president in 1928.

In a one-line sentence he made the following announcement to a group of startled newspapermen:

"I do not choose to run for president in nineteen twenty-eight."

PRES. COOLIDGE

There was no amplification of the little written announcement. Each reporter was given a piece of a slim sheet of flimsy paper and Mr. Coolidge waved them out of his office signifying the audience was ended.

There had been no advance information that the president intended at noon to make the most momentous announcement of his political life. At the regular Tuesday conference held at 9 o'clock in the morning he had added at the end:

"If you gentlemen will return at noon I shall have a further announcement to make."

The speculation generally had it semi-officially had been that the statement would have to do with the impending failure of the naval conference at Geneva.

Promptly at 12 o'clock approximately 30 newspapermen were ushered into Mr. Coolidge's office. He stood wait

The New York-to-Paris flier was to visit his friend and mentor at the hospital today and to spend the remainder of the time with Parmely Herrick, the ambassador's son, and other members of the family resting quietly in preparation for his hop-off to Pittsburgh late today.

Numerous cases of heat prostration occurred in the massed throng of thousands who lined the Jarling field and the right of way of the parade which marked Colonel Lindbergh's arrival here late yesterday afternoon from Buffalo. He was honor guest at a municipal banquet last night and in an address congratulating Cleveland, its citizens in advancing the science of aviation through provision for landing fields and other facilities for fliers.

WORKHOUSE PLAN GAINS GROUND HERE

Proposal To Establish Penal Institution in Marion County To Be Discussed at Meeting of Officials Soon

PROBLEM FACED BY COUNTY BOARD

Prisoners from Here Refused Admittance at Dayton Work-House; Believe One Could Be Operated Here on Profit-Paying Basis

That Marion may have a workhouse in the near future to care for prisoners sentenced from both the city and county courts was indicated today by several local officials.

Immediate action on a proposal to build a workhouse in this city or to enter into a contract with one in some other city was made necessary yesterday when a statement was received by the Marion County commissioners from the Dayton workhouse officials announcing that after Sept. 1, 1927 no prisoners from this county would be accepted at that institution.

Workhouse officials made known in the letter to the local commissioners that the action was necessary by overcrowded conditions at their institution. The letter revealed that according to an agreement with city officials in the future only prisoners from Dayton courts will be admitted at the workhouse there.

In connection with the critical situation in which the decision of the workhouse officials leaves Marion, Frank Wiedemann, Marion County prosecutor, announced today that he would meet with the county commissioners in the very near future to decide on steps to be taken in regard to the proposed workhouse here.

With a majority of the city and county officials in accord with the plan of establishing a workhouse here, the question of financing the project will probably be the greatest obstacle in the path of action, it is believed.

Approval of the workhouse proposal has been voiced by Judge William R. Martin and Police Chief Thompson, representing the city, and Prosecutor Wiedemann and other officials of the county.

Saving of time and money to the county is one of the main points which will be considered at the meeting of the commissioners and city officials in regard to the plan according to Wiedemann. Transportation to and from workhouses out of the city is one of the largest items in sentencing a prisoner to a workhouse, besides the daily expense for his keep, which is 85 cents.

May Increase Charge

That workhouse officials might also continue to advance the price of the daily keep of the inmates, was also intimated since the daily cost for prisoners has almost doubled in the last [illegible] years.

When the cost of maintenance of a prisoner at the Dayton workhouse was 50 cents per day in 1920, and officials proposed to boost the price to 65 cents, the first action of any sort in this county for the erection of a workhouse in Marion was taken by Fred W. Warner, who was then serving as prosecutor.

Warner, who argued to the Marion county commissioners that the expense of sending prisoners to other workhouses was too great, offered a plan to purchase the Ohio Blue Limestone Quarry north of the city and have it operated by the prisoners.

At that time, according to Warner, the quarry could have been purchased for about $20,000 and with necessary buildings and improvements he believed that the project would have cost the city between $45,000 and $50,000.

No interest, however, could be aroused in Warner's suggestion and Marion County signed a new agreement with the Dayton workhouse officials to send prisoners there at 65 cents a day. Since that time, the cost has been brought up to 75 cents per man and finally to the present amount, 85 cents.

Warner Plan Favored

It is likely, according to officials, that should a plan for establishing a workhouse in this city materialize it will follow along the same lines as the idea presented by Warner.

Many prisoners who are now taken to the already crowded county jail would be sent to the workhouse to earn their keep instead of being allowed to lounge away their time in idleness.

Due to the high cost of sending law violators to workhouses in other cities only those guilty of the more serious offenses are committed to these places. Intoxication cases end in the county jail here, while in other cities persons arrested on that charge are compelled to work out their sentences. Many men are also sent to the workhouse from here on non-support charges.

Since other counties in Ohio are in the same predicament as Marion County as the result of workhouse doors being closed to their prisoners, it is figured that the institution proposed for this city would soon be receiving many boarders from the outside. This would help maintain the place without any added expense to the county and would possibly place it on a profit-paying basis, officials state.

Alternative Plan

In event that the proposed plan does not appear feasible to the commissioners at the meeting with the county prosecutor in the next few days, signing of another agreement with some other city in the state may be considered. Canton and Lima have workhouses with which negotiations may be started.

An agreement with the Lima workhouse officials at the time the Dayton officials announced an advance in rates, [illegible] could not be obtained. The reason given for the refusal [illegible] Marion [illegible] of [illegible] the institution.

The agreement of Marion County with the Dayton workhouse officials does not expire until Jan. 1, 1928, but the action of the officials was taken under a section of the agreement which provides for the discontinuance of the contract [illegible] from the Dayton [illegible].

Coolidge In 5th Year as President

Rapid City, S. D., Aug. 2—President Coolidge celebrated his fourth year in the presidential chair today by taking care of the routine business of government, conferring with Senator Capper, Republican of Kansas, proclaimed leader of the senate farm bloc, hearing Representative Chindblom, Republican, Illinois on tax reduction, receiving the Washington correspondents and attending mail at the executive offices.

Capper said that Mr. Coolidge could carry the west if some farm relief legislation (preferably the McNary-Haugen bill) is adopted at the next session of congress. But if the farmers in 1928 are in the same fix that they are in now there will be trouble, Capper predicted.

Chindblom came with a rosy prospect of a $400,000,000 tax reduction to satisfy the country and observed that tax reduction is more necessary than the McNary-Haugen bill in his part of the country.

* * *

Capper objected to the bill which has been passed out here by administration leaders as the administration plan of relief, according to his opponents. Some day it will be introduced at the December session of congress and championed by regular Republicans.

It provides for establishment of a $[illegible] federal revolving fund to permit cooperative organizations to build warehouses and finance marketing of farmers' crops in a stabilized market.

McKinley Park Lake is Drained Dry When Valve Fails to Shut Off Outlet

Water Disappears During Night; Fish Are Saved When Water Is Turned into Reservoir This Morning from Hydrants

As the result of a valve becoming caught and failing to close up the outlet, all of the water was drained from McKinley park lake last night leaving hundreds of fish floundering for a time on the mud bottom.

The valve was adjusted early this morning and water from fire hydrants turned into the lake until sufficient depth was established to prevent the fish from perishing.

The lake was drained as the result of work started early last night under the direction of William Hunaker, superintendent of streets. The city service department had completed plans for substituting a concrete slab for the grating, which now covers the spillway of the lake near Prospect st. and it was necessary to reduce the level of the water so that workmen could make the change.

Valve Catches

When sufficient water had been drained out it was found that the outlet valve had caught and could not be closed.

Boys living in the vicinity of the lake enjoyed a period of unusual sport this morning after discovering that the water had disappeared. Equipped with spears and other sharp pointed instruments they collected large numbers of carp and cat fish.

Their entertainment was of brief duration however as service department employes arrived soon and started water running back into the reservoir.

Draining of the lake has again brought to the attention of city officials the question of what is to be done to make it of some value other than a dumping place for cans, old automobile tires and a generous assortment of rubbish.

Unfit for Bathing

The bottom is covered with nearly two feet of mud and this, in addition to the rubbish that is thrown into the lake, prevents it from being made into a bathing pool and does anything but add to the beauty of the place. Officials are of the opinion that it should either be filled up and grassed over or cleaned out and a concrete bottom put in for use as a bathing pool for the children.

One outstanding objection to the latter plan, the officials say, is the lack of necessary money with which to carry out the work although all agree it would be a happy solution to the problem.

Section Man Hurt in Crash Yesterday Dies in Bucyrus Hospital

Bucyrus, Aug. 2—Stanley Fritz, 2[illegible] died in Monnett Hospital at 7:30 Monday night as a result of injuries sustained on the section of the Pennsylvania railroad [illegible] Monday morning.

The section gang had been dumping cinders along the railroad right of way. Fritz and the remainder of the gang were riding in a caboose between the locomotive and the two loaded cars. The engineer was switching preparatory to dumping the cars and for some reason the switch was not [illegible], according to reports, and the engine crashed into several freight cars standing on the siding.

Caboose Tilted

The caboose crushed between the engine and the two loaded cars was lifted by the force that it tilted to almost a 45 degree angle. Fritz, standing on the platform of the caboose was thrown off and landed underneath the loaded car, which passed over him. His right leg was almost completely severed at the ankle, making amputation necessary.

In addition to a broken left leg he suffered severe cuts in the groin and side.

His home is in Philadelphia. Funeral arrangements will be made later.

James Grant and Wallace Monnett, local lads on the same gang, were among the occupants of the caboose. They were badly jarred and slightly cut by the flying glass. Monnett sustained a large gash in the head.

J. L. Ward Issues Statement of Appreciation to Public on Retirement as Head of Bucyrus Educational System; Plans Not Announced

Bucyrus, Aug. 2—Edward N. Dietrich, former superintendent of schools at [illegible], is expected to arrive [illegible] to accept the [illegible] at $4,500 per year offered to him by the school board by a three to two vote at a meeting last Friday night. Mr. Dietrich must resign his position [illegible] having been re-elected for another term of three years.

Supt. J. L. Ward's contract as superintendent of the Bucyrus schools ended at midnight Sunday. As to his future plans he is vague.

Upon his retirement Ward issued a statement to the public expressing his appreciation for their support. Mr. Ward's statement follows in full:

"To the people of Bucyrus: The three years that have just passed have been those in which earnest endeavor has been put into the administration of the Bucyrus city school system. If I am to judge by the words of the State Director of Education of Ohio, by what the patrons and taxpayers of this city have said continuously since the close of my first year, by the records of our graduates in the institutions and colleges to which they [illegible] it was expected of me [illegible] I am very grateful for this aim [illegible] that the public schools here have [illegible] and that the welfare of the children has been looked after.

For the strange and incredible [illegible] on the part of a few that have opposed me there is no occasion for the community of Bucyrus as a whole. This has been a fine community in which to live and rear a family of growing children. In no place where I have been has the social, spiritual, moral and educational environment been better for them. In no place have I found truer friendships than I have found here or as many of them. In no place have I found all kinds of community service so well appreciated as it has been here. That is full compensation for every activity in which I have had the pleasure and the privilege of participating. For the savage and venomous attacks of a few who have doggedly [illegible] practically during the whole of my residence here and the additional worries and nervous strain that they added to those which naturally accompany the responsibilities of school administration, I am confident the community as a whole did not approve, for on the part of the great majority I have seen the manifestation of the finest spirit of sympathetic cooperation, good will and the desire for fair play."

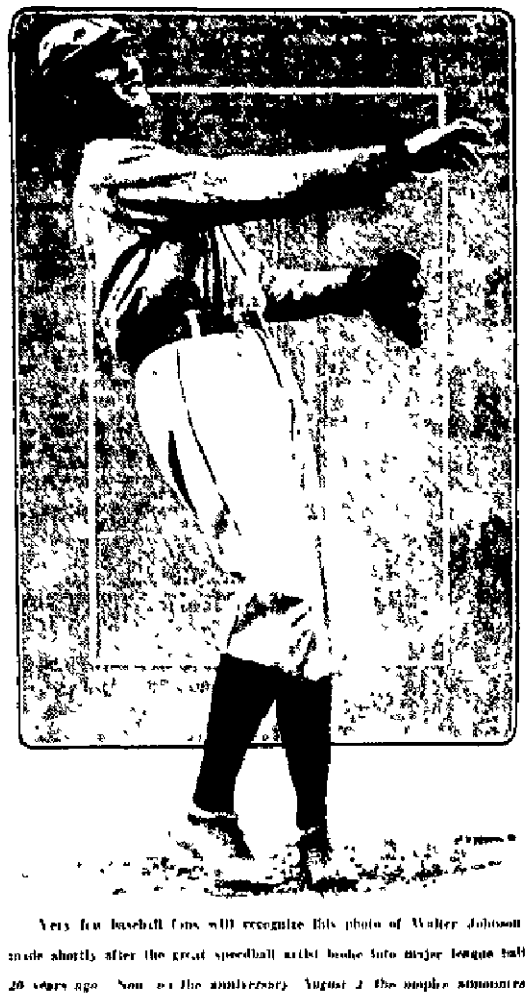
FARY SOLD?

Oakland, Cal., Aug. 2.—Although admitting that negotiations are in progress, Herbert McFarlin, secretary of the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league, denied today that Lynford Lary, star shortstop, had actually been sold to the Chicago White Sox for a reported $100,000 consideration.



AT THE START OF HIS CAREER

Very few baseball fans will recognize this photo of Walter Johnson made shortly after the great speedball artist broke into major league ball 20 years ago. Now, on the anniversary, August 2, the umpire announces Johnson for Washington against Detroit.

Why should I keep it to myself?

AS THE song had it, "—but I won't be happy, till I make you happy, too." I want you to share with me the joy of a pipe and Prince Albert. I may be prejudiced, but I don't believe you can find the brand of pipe-joy I'm talking about in any other way.

Why, the very moment you open the tidy red tin and breathe that glorious P. A. aroma, you know—then and there—you are going to like this tobacco, and like it lots. And, if you still have the slightest doubt, it will vanish the instant you taste the smoke itself.

Cool as a March rain beating against the window-pane. Sweet as the flowers that attract the honey-bees. Mild as the greeting of a rival—mild, but with that full tobacco body that makes the perfectly balanced smoke. A whole world of satisfaction in every single puff.

Prince Albert has pleased more pipe-smokers than any other tobacco before or since. You can ask any jimmy-piper. But the way to really know is to buy yourself a tidy red tin, tuck a load into your pipe, and light up. That's better than anybody's opinion.

PRINCE ALBERT

Sorry to lose my [illegible] Don't you remember [illegible] better than [illegible] how glorious [illegible] time you found you [illegible] of the water [illegible] a moment ago [illegible] leaping like a Jack [illegible] a short while ago

...LE SETS OUT FOR A SWIM ...G COMES MR. FISH

[illegible] a homely little Tad[illegible] the pond [illegible] patted his new [illegible] things that love the youngster and [illegible] no longer [illegible] nothing to do all day [illegible] Froggie for the [illegible] He shook [illegible] a queer sound in his [illegible]

[illegible] used to say—I [illegible] were a Tadpole [illegible] to do you say [illegible] remembers [illegible] toward the [illegible] for his answer [illegible] said [illegible] morning meal [illegible]

[illegible] rarely a mouthful to be sure but very appetizing. I must have him. Snap go his great jaws. He swallows lots of water but no Tadpole. Tadpole has darted far out of Mr. Fish's reach and is laughing at old Funny Fins from behind his back.

"Fooled him that time," chuckles Tadpole and starts after a gnat he sees hovering near by when [illegible] he hears a sound, Flip! Kersplash! A fat fly drops down beside him. Tadpole almost grabs fly for he is very, very hungry, [illegible] when he catches sight of a gleam no bigger than a scale on a fin. But he knows [illegible]—a hook! A Two Legs is on the bank and he is fishing. [illegible] is a cruel bent pin. Tadpole breathes a sigh of relief. What luck! [illegible] Froggie [illegible] the Boy and wagged a [illegible] foot [illegible] him.

"I hope you think it is fun to be in danger of your life every moment—never to feel quite safe in the depths or on the surface," croaked he, "but take my word for it, it isn't, not one bit. I don't believe any sensible creature would care about being all big head and long tail either, and with only silly little feet instead of regular legs like these. No Sir, I am glad my Tadpole days are over. I'd rather be a frog than anything else in the world."

SAY ITALIAN CHANGES ARE TOWARD AUTOCRACY

Prof. Henry R. Spencer, O. S. U., Addresses Institute of Politics

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 2—What Napoleon did in France Mussolini seems to be doing in Italy, establishing an autocracy, Prof. Henry R. Spencer of Ohio State University asserted here today before the Institute of Politics.

The situation in Italy, though still in a critical transitional stage, has passed beyond the scope of dictatorship, he said. Whether the dictatorship so called will prove benevolent or malevolent remains to be seen, he added.

Long continued public apathy and indifference to public affairs in America in time might produce a Mussolini, Spencer said.

"When public spirit goes to sleep the dark powers have their chance," he stated. "When self-government lapses an empire of wealth or corruption results. If the constitution which is the life of the being is suspended too long, it dies."

The true dictator, Spencer said, after performing his task of maintaining the existence of the state in a crisis lays down the extraordinary powers and enables the constitution to function again normally.

If he yields to the temptation to turn such autocracy into irresponsible empire he has become the destroyer of true law and stable order.

Royal Train of 11 Coaches Acme of Luxury; Party Enroute to Ottawa

Montreal, Aug. 2—The magnificently appointed royal train bearing the Prince of Wales, his brother Prince George, Premier Stanley Baldwin and Mrs. Baldwin left here this morning for Ottawa, the capital city of the dominion. A reception by the mayor and government officials awaited the royal party upon its arrival in Ottawa.

Along the railroad flag-decked stations were crowded with villagers who came from far and near to cheer the Princes and the premier as they sped through.

From Ottawa the royal train will proceed west via Toronto to the Prince of Wales' ranch in High River, Alberta. In Manitoba Premier Baldwin will take a short rest at Banff in the rockies before returning to England.

The royal train, 11 cars in length, is the acme of luxury with fixtures of inlaid mahogany and a well stocked library. European chefs of international fame prepare the royal meals. Radio music entertains the party enroute.

SPECIAL TROOP TRAINS OPERATE ON TWO ROADS

Hocking Valley and Pennsylvania Carry Soldiers to and from Camp Perry

Three special trains, two of which carried men enroute to and from Camp Perry, were operated over the Hocking Valley Railroad through this city Sunday and two others, one carrying men from Camp Perry, operated over the Pennsylvania through Marion.

Howitzer Company of Marion returned home over the Pennsy, and Company H arrived here Sunday over the Hocking Valley. The special trains were enroute to Columbus and points south. The New York Central carried the special coaches from Camp Perry to Sandusky for the Pennsylvania connection and took the other special cars to Toledo to make connection with the Hocking Valley.

Other Specials

Sunday afternoon another special train carrying companies of the Ohio National Guard enroute to Camp Perry operated through Marion over the Hocking Valley. The third special over the Hocking was a private excursion train going to Put-in-Bay. The other Pennsylvania special was the regular excursion train to Sandusky and Cedar Point.

The Hocking Valley also ran excursion rates to Norfolk—Virginia Beach on the regular trains Sunday.

Freight Increases

Freight cars loaded with revenue freight for the week ended July 16 totaled 1,016,782 cars according to bulletins received here based on reports filed with the car service division of the American Railway Association. This was an increase above the preceding week.

Flood Near Tracks

The cloudburst which struck Marion about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon flooded Centervil in the vicinity of the Pennsylvania and Hocking Valley Railroad crossings but the water did not completely cover the tracks.

Interest In Excursion

A number of inquiries about the second Erie Railroad 16-day limit excursion to New York are being made and it is estimated that a large number will take advantage of the opportunity to visit the metropolis. Twenty local persons made the trip last month.

Fuel Statistics

The Interstate Commerce Commission has just made public its analysis of fuel expenditure in railroad train service during May 1927 according to bulletins received in Marion. The coal consumption in that month was 7,723,[illegible] tons. Fuel oil consumed during the month was 165,801,317 gallons.

HAY FEVER PROBLEM SOLVED, SAYS SIFRITT

Once Serious Menace Eliminated, Asserts County Health Official

Hay fever should not affect as many Marion residents this year as it for mer years is the opinion of Dr. N. Sifritt, Marion County Health commissioner.

His statement follows an announcement from federal health authorities published yesterday in which hay fever addicts were warned that the season during which their ailment is most prevalent starts about Aug. 1.

Owing to the recent discoveries of medical scientists the former danger of hay fever is almost eliminated because a remedy for the disease has been found according to the local health director.

Formerly people would even leave the state to keep from suffering from the fever when no cure was known for it," says Dr. Sifritt. "But local doctors have the situation well in hand and can easily prescribe an effective remedy."

Dr. C. C. Pierce, assistant United States surgeon general, declares that a dry summer is responsible for hay or rose fever epidemics.

He announces that during a rainy summer dust and pollen are washed into the ground, eliminating much of the danger of hay fever.

OPEN BIDS AUG. 17

Letting of Crawford-Marion County Road Set by Commissioners

Commissioners of Marion and Crawford counties met in Bucyrus yesterday and fixed 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon Aug. 17 for opening of the bids on improvement of the boundary road between the two counties.

The bids will be opened in the office of the Marion County commissioners. It was announced. The commissioners of both counties will be present.

A. J. Gruber, a member of the Crawford County board, has been named joint chairman of the two boards and will preside at the conference Aug. 17. He was in charge of the meeting yesterday.

KONJOLA ENDED STOMACH AND KIDNEY TROUBLE

Marion Lady Had Suffered 8 Years Before She Got The New Compound.

One of the latest well known residents of this city who is strongly endorsing the new Konjola is Mrs. Nancy Swegger, Ruth Avenue, Marion. Her statement about the work of this celebrated medicinal compound was given just a few days ago to the Konjola Man who is meeting large crowds in person each day at the Stump Pharmacy, 121 South Main St., Marion, and explaining Konjola.

MRS. NANCY SWEGGER

"I have but one thought in mind in giving Konjola my indorsement," said Mrs. Swegger, "and that is the good it will do others who are suffering. I found out about this medicine myself by reading the statements of other people, so I feel it is my own duty to indorse such a remedy.

"I had been suffering 8 years with stomach and kidney troubles before I got Konjola. The food I ate seemed to [illegible] around in my stomach like a sharp rock and caused the most terrific pains anyone ever suffered. Large quantities of gas would form in my system and bloat me up so that I could hardly breathe. The kidney trouble caused backaches and night rising 2 or 3 times. This broke up my rest and I was always tired and worn-out thru the day. Many times I had to lie down and rest.

"I had some faith in Konjola because everybody spoke so well of this medicine, but I had no idea when I started taking it that it would bring a great change over my whole system. Why, it is a positive fact that my stomach and kidney troubles are ended so completely that I am feeling like I never had a sick day in my life. I am free of backaches and I'm not rising, and my food is digesting perfectly. My appetite is increased and I always feel good from the time I get up until I go to bed at night. I [illegible] of resting during the day [illegible] the [illegible] gain [illegible] in my face [illegible] and it seems [illegible] my whole appearance is changed.

"I certainly [illegible] wonderful to find a medicine like Konjola and as I said, I feel [illegible] to tell [illegible] such a [illegible] to others."

[illegible] Konjola Man is at the Stump Pharmacy (Stump and Samek), 121 South Main St., Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Konjola is now being sold by all of the good drug stores in every nearby town [illegible] —Adv.

AIMEE AND HER MOTHER END BITTER QUARREL

Mrs. Kennedy To Surrender Her Management of Temple Finances

Los Angeles Calif Aug 2— Aimee and Ma have made up.

This was the reassuring message circulated today among members of Aimee Semple McPherson's million dollar Angelus Temple regarding the bitter quarrel of the evangelist and her mother Mrs. Minnie Kennedy.

A conference of attorneys representing both founders of the great religious enterprise reached a tentative settlement of their dispute. Fundamental conditions of the agreement it was understood are that "Mother" Kennedy whom her daughter ousted as a manager of the temple several days ago will surrender her management of church finances for half of the $100,000 [illegible] property held jointly by her and her sister.

She will continue as an adviser and trustee the attorneys announcement stated but Mrs. McPherson will take over actual control.

The division of property will not affect Angelus Temple and its palatial Bible school it was announced.

Amicable settlement of the bitter quarrel came at a time when mother and daughter seemed hopelessly estranged. Only a short time before the reconciliation Mrs. Kennedy had probably hinted her disbelief in the famous kidnaping story of her daughter. Earlier in the dispute Mrs. Kennedy declared she [illegible] the truth of her daughter's [illegible] story.

Everything was forgotten however in the paeans of hallelujahs that greeted announcement of the reconciliation. Mother and daughter kissed as affectionately as though there had never been a rift in their relations.

JAZZ OVERWHELMS JAPANESE

"Valencia Song" as played by Japanese jazz orchestras is the most popular dance tune in Japan according to Miss Madeline Moquin society girl who has returned after an eight months tour in the Orient. "Nor is Jazz music the only American importation into Japan," says Miss Moquin. "Dining tables and dining chairs are finding their way into Japanese homes and one sees American movies constantly. As a matter of fact living costs are rising in Japan and the increase is due to the influence of American standards. Some queer incongruities result. For instance, those exquisite geisha girls, professional entertainers and the most beautiful girls in Japan whose fragile courtly manners have been the wonder of the world now do the Charleston and the black bottom."

"Great Warrior Burial" is Unearthed in Ohio Mound

CHILLICOTHE Aug 2 — Explorers today were continuing their investigations of the "great warrior burial" of mound builders found late yesterday at the Seip Mound west of here. The burial is said to be second in importance only to the "great pearl burial" discovered during 1925 when the nobles of a lost race swathed in thousands of fresh water pearls were unearthed.

The "great warrior burial" so designated because of the unusual number of copper axes found interred is elevated above the usual level of the burial platforms. On the mound floor proper were found a small copper axe, breast plates, ear spools, a piece of burial cloth and shell beads. In the elevated burial were discovered five copper axes of fighting size, a pair of ear spools and copper breast plates.

It is believed the remains were those of a person of some importance who died during the construction of the mound. The mound builders, according to Shetrone, paid a last honor to him by placing the body in the huge earth work.

The explorations are under the direction of Prof H. C. Shetrone, curator of the Ohio Museum and were viewed by Arthur Johnson, Columbus editor and head of the Ohio Archaeological and Historical Society and Dr Guthrie [illegible] sity of Michigan archaeologist.

The Motor Slaughter Increasing

Announcement is made by the department of commerce in Washington that deaths due to automobile accidents have increased seven per cent. in the last year. According to the department's figures 6,950 persons were killed in seventy seven of our large cities during the year ended July 17, against 6,493 deaths during the twelve months preceding it.

The department further reports that during the four weeks ended July 16, 1927, automobile accidents were responsible for 5[illegible] deaths in these same seventy seven cities in which records were kept compared with 45[illegible] deaths in the same cities during the same four week period of 1926.

In one of the seventy seven cities—Chicago—there were ninety six more deaths during the year ended July 17, 1927, than during the year ended on the same date in 1926, the total being 72[illegible] against [illegible]2.

Despite all the safety rules and appliances, despite any and all actions, both restrictive and punitive, taken by police and highway officials, despite all rules and regulations adopted and promulgated by automobile clubs and associations, despite all legal enactments, the slaughter goes on. And it will continue to go on until motorists generally interest themselves individually in the apprehension and conviction of the offenders.

Were all members of automobile associations to make it their business to report without fear or favor every violation of the traffic rules and regulations coming under their observation it would not be long till the awful toll of death due to automobile [illegible] would be reduced and [illegible] would not be over [illegible] a year till motorists [illegible] comparative safety to themselves [illegible] of the safety to pedestrians. And until motorists do follow such a course there is little chance of a recession in the number of deaths and injuries as a result of automobile accidents. If anything under present conditions the outlook is that the seven per cent. increase this year will be augmented next.

Ford Against a Trade War

Henry Ford has put a [illegible] to the rumor [illegible] within [illegible] with [illegible] for several months that [illegible] market [illegible] planned to start a trade war. [illegible] that if any trade war [illegible] will not originate with the Ford interests. And quashing the rumor Mr. Ford also [illegible] regarding the [illegible] which they [illegible] used to print:

"[illegible] take business away from any automobile manufacturer," Mr. Ford said in denying the [illegible]. "Our thought has always been that the automobile industry is prosperous only when all of the makers of cars are busy. If any particular automobile company [illegible] putting out of business some other automobile manufacturer there would be no gain to that. It would only mean putting thousands of men out of work, idling valuable power, [illegible] waste and maybe throwing a great industry out of balance."

Discussing the saturation point Mr. Ford said the best expression of his views on that subject will be gleaned from the fact that he planned to go far beyond previous production records in the coming years.

"We built [illegible] Model T cars in less than nineteen years and we expect to build many more than [illegible] of the new cars in much less than nineteen years.

"That might sound strange but you must realize that there are still parts of the world where there are many families without automobiles. There are some parts of the world where whole families have never seen an automobile."

Coming from some men we might be inclined to take with a grain of salt the declaration about having no desire or intention to attempt the putting out of business of any competitor but we credit Mr. Ford with being sincere. He has not always followed the course of wisdom in some things but in business matters we believe his course will be acknowledged generally to have been wise and we believe that his expressed conclusions regarding the effect of a trade war are those he actually holds. He does not propose to start or enter into a trade war because he believes it would be bad business for the automobile industry, bad business for all lines of industry and bad business for him and it is our feeling that his stand upon this point is no more prompted by personal interest than it is for the interests of all lines of industry and thus of the country as a whole.

Care in Preparing Milk.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

This is the season of the year when the most careful attention must be given to the feeding of the baby. Blessed is the child who has the privilege of breast feeding. Such an infant has much greater prospect of health and welfare in hot weather than has the baby who must be fed upon the bottle.

However it is possible to carry on bottle feeding in such a way as to insure the health of the child. This requires lots of work, attention to detail and infinite patience. There must not be a single break in the system or disaster will come to the infant.

I am not telling you these things because they are new. I am speaking of them at this particular time because of the absolute necessity of giving heed to these matters at this season of the year.

Diarrhea, intestinal fermentation, stomach disorders, convulsions and fever are among the things which may happen if there is any failure of attention to details of the feeding. Every utensil used in preparing the food, the bottles, the rubber nipples, everything which touches the milk or is touched by the baby, must be sterilized.

We may laugh at germs as a newfangled [illegible] but it is we make a mistake if we do. All we need to [illegible] the importance of modern methods is to call attention to the declining death rate of infants. A generation ago a quarter of the babies died in their first year of life. At least four times as many died as do at present. The improved conditions are due largely to the use of sterilized milk and cleanliness in the preparation of the food.

Every young mother must bear in mind that the milk as it comes from the cow is not suited for infant consumption. It must be modified to make it approximate mother's milk in its proportions. There are certain formulas which may be called stock formulas but it is not enough to have a stock formula. The needs of the individual child must be taken into consideration. To this end you should talk to your doctor or go to the baby health station for advice. You must make sure that the milk mixture is accurate and suitable for your infant.

In this season do not forget that babies get thirsty. You know how you suffer if you are thirsty. Don't you think a little baby suffers too?

Sometimes a young mother thinks because her infant is being exclusively on the is that the child does not need any water. This is a mistake. It needs water just as we do. A teaspoonful of water will bring a look of content on the face of many a baby who has been crying a few minutes before.

The water to be given the infant should be boiled and cooled. You must take no chances of infection from contaminated water.

It is a good thing to remember that whenever there is any doubt about any kind of food or drink, cooking or boiling will remove the danger. Heat is destructive to germ life.

Attention to these details will help to make the summer a happy one for the mother and infant.

LIFE INSURANCE

The recent laying of the cornerstone of a monumental building for one of the great insurance companies suggests to the New York Times in an impressive way the increasingly important part which life insurance has among the social and financial forces in modern life. President Kingsley, in an address before the International Association of Life Underwriters, spoke of life insurance as being as inherent in the program of a free self-governing people as sound morals and wise laws and as necessary as research in pure science. It puts the emphasis upon life and upon those relations which are not only personal but also basic to society. It prolongs the economic life of the individual and helps him to meet family obligations which he has freely assumed, and also to keep the contract that he has incidentally made with society.

Man has extended his business relations beyond the brief span of his years by incorporating himself. He has often prolonged his influence through generations by associating himself with an institution. But through life insurance he overleaps the barriers of disability and death and gives his personality longer than natural life in its more intimate relations of affection here on earth without impairing the hopes of immortality beyond. It helps effectively to relate the brief life of the individual to the continuing life of the race and robs the grave of its complete victory.

With assets of $1[illegible]100,000,000 and outstanding risks of $70,000,000,000 for which actuarial provision has been made, the life insurance companies of the United States and Canada become together a majestic monument to the thrift, providence and family devotion of millions upon millions towering above all other country's memorials. It is a monument of help and hope for the living which the dead have erected rather than a monument of sorrow for the dead which the living have raised. It is also a dynamic means of itself which exalts life and defeats death by making death contribute to life.—Danville Commercial News.

A TRANSFORMED HAREM

Secrets winding labyrinths of the royal harem will be revealed to the curious eyes of the public in a few months when the imperial palace of the Turkish sultans is converted into a museum. Oaken doors will swing open readily and iron bolts will not grate behind visitors. Concealed stairways and hidden cubbyholes may be explored freely and the dim light of wicks floating in saucers of oil will no longer be the only illumination. Yet a reminiscent atmosphere of furtive dread will hover over the [illegible] gilded rooms in which still floats the faint [illegible] of incense from Mecca.

One can imagine the tragic ghosts of vanished harem favorites mingling in bewildered amazement with the throng of sightseers. Here perhaps, flits Bride of the Moon, trailing the red cord with which she was strangled at midnight when her plot [illegible] the heir to the throne was discovered. And there wanders Djevri Kalfa, favorite of the [illegible] whose life she saved when, as a servant, [illegible] embers from the brazier at the feet of the young Sultan Mahmoud while he climbed up [illegible] to escape.

No more tragedies will be enacted in the old harem. [illegible] Turkish women are adopting western [illegible] and learning to be human beings, not pawns or playthings. The past is pushed still further back by the revelation of the scenes of their [illegible] dramas and intrigues.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

He served as dairy and food commissioner of the state of Ohio from 1907 to 1911 and secretary of agriculture for the state for [illegible] months in 1915. Dunlap was made assistant secretary of agriculture in 192[illegible] by appointment of President Coolidge. He served as a member of the Ohio senate for the [illegible] sixth general assembly.

Comparing the returns from farming and industries recently he said:

"It is true that not all the economic ills of agriculture have been cured. The farmers are not yet receiving a fair share of the national income. Farming profits are lower than the profits of other industries. The average return on capital for all industries in the [illegible] is twelve per cent. but the average return to the farming industry is only three per cent.

Dinner Stories.

The flying ace was in the eighth [illegible] his great trip around the world. [illegible] days and wealth and glory would be [illegible] denly the engine started missing [illegible] stopped altogether. The plane glided to earth and landed—in the middle of the Sahara desert.

Out of gas! Alone and lost in the desert wastes with only [illegible] far as the eye could see. Faced [illegible] the horrors of desert thirst and [illegible] desert sun. And no shelter nowhere [illegible]—perhaps a thousand miles away.

Suddenly the silence was broken [illegible] of a voice.

"Let's get you climbing out of [illegible] Wave your hand and smile again. A little closer." That's [illegible]

And then thirty seven news reels started grinding away.

Clubs, Dogs and Gas from Fords Used in War on Hord of Rats Which Invade Marion County Farms

RATS! And lots of 'em say farmers of Marion county and vicinity, many of whom report that their land and granaries are infested at this time with the largest army of rodents assembled in this section of the state for many years.

Actual cause of the unusual situation, which threatens serious damage in some places, can not be determined, although it is generally believed that heavy rains of the last few months which flooded streets and cellars in cities and villages are largely responsible.

It is regarded as plausible that the floods carried or drove large numbers of the rodents to farm territory.

Kill 115 in Three Hours

Evidence of how serious the situation is in some places comes from the Uhler farm located about two miles west of the city, where three men and two dogs exterminated 115 rats Saturday afternoon in about three hours. The 115 were routed from a corn crib and killed by the men and dogs, the men using clubs as implements of warfare. A section of the crib flooring was removed in order to give the two dogs an opening for attack.

The battle was directed by T. M. Porter, tenant on the Uhler farm.

WORLD FACING SHORTAGE OF CRUDE RUBBER

Will Be Acute, Declares Akron Manufacturer; Higher Tire Prices Seen

New York, Aug. 2—The world will face an acute shortage of crude rubber within three years despite the discovery of bud grafting and new planting, William O'Neil, president of the General Tire and Rubber Co. of Akron, predicted before sailing for Europe on the ship Aquitania to study the rubber situation abroad [illegible].

O'Neil based his prediction of a shortage on his observation that consumption is increasing much more rapidly than production of crude rubber because of the natural increase in the demand. Manufacturers are agreed on this point, differing only as to when a shortage will be felt, he stated. The year has witnessed a gain in the industry of approximately 15 per cent over 1926, he said, pointing out that the trade as a whole is using more crude rubber.

Timid About Experiments

O'Neil said that manufacturers do not expect Thomas A. Edison's experiments to have an appreciable effect on the situation.

"I don't see that he could get a plant that will produce rubber [illegible] pound. But when Edison thinks [illegible] [illegible] per foot where labor is paid only 20 cents a day he isn't following the lines laid down by most manufacturers. They go after the highest lines."

O'Neil pointed out that labor costs in the rubber producing regions average about six cents a pound, based on a daily wage of 20 cents. In America, he said, where farm labor receives approximately $5 a day, discovery of a plant that would grow here and yield even three times as much rubber as the best producers in the straits settlements would make production costs prohibitive.

Sees Prices Higher

Despite the belief that there will be a rubber shortage in three years, O'Neil sees no prompt [illegible] for increased tire prices. However, he does think that tires will be higher next year as he expects the price of crude rubber to advance.

The tire business as a whole, he said, is good and manufacturers are making money. Last year, he said, they took a loss because of the rapid decline in the price of crude rubber.

ONE of the most pathetic things is the [illegible] of young persons [illegible] start out [illegible] just what they are facing. [illegible] thing that some marvelous chance will come along [illegible] the kind of work they have dreamed of.

The motion picture field especially is offering such unreasonable [illegible] of a thrilling, exciting, romantic future. [illegible] [illegible] show that approximately 40,000 extras are roaming the streets of Hollywood in search of a chance to appear in the movies. And the pity of the whole thing is that only about 10,000 can possibly be employed from time to time—that is, if the studios are working full blast.

These young folk are lured away from home by the hope that they only [illegible] [illegible] of the screen stars about whom they have read. The determination to win such success is based, often only on some real or imaginary resemblance to them. To accentuate their likeness they affect the styles of dressing and mannerisms of their particular idols. Observing them one could easily tell which player it is who has inspired them to follow his footsteps.

Day after day these young folk, many of whom will probably never get a chance to appear before the camera, are waiting for a sign of recognition from the casting director who never even deigns to glance their way. But nothing can lessen their determination. Patiently they wait and wait and wait, hoping that some day [illegible] will happen and they will get their longed-for chance.

AFTER a long time of steadily refusing [illegible] persuasions that some of his plays be filmed, George Bernard Shaw, it is said, has been personally [illegible] for his play, Saint Joan, with Sybil Thorndike [illegible] it is thought likely that the author will consent to the picturization of this and probably some other plays. This announcement has stirred [illegible] comment among picture producers in America, as for [illegible] years they have unsuccessfully endeavored to get the Shaw plays picture rights.

The original [illegible] will be portrayed by Lewis Stone in the [illegible] "The Private Life of Helen of Troy," in which Maria Corda is to be Helen.

Louise Fazenda will be Will Rogers' [illegible] in "A Texas Steer," and Ann Rork will have the role of [illegible] the Texas [illegible] daughter [illegible]

Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, has announced an innovation to be inaugurated with Universal pictures in the [illegible] In case of long features a title containing a repetition of the cast of characters will be added to the end of the film. This will enable the public to check [illegible] on the players' work.

Greta Garbo's next starring picture, "The Divine Woman," an adaptation of Gladys Unger's story, "Starlight," will be directed by Victor Sjostrom. Miss Gardner [illegible] as soon as he finishes directing Lillian Gish's new picture, "The Wind."

In the making of a picture out of "Rip Van Winkle," Cecil de Mille has cast Rudolph Schildkraut as the "old fellow" who slept for 20 years. It is understood that many of the scenes will actually be taken in the Catskills to get some of the real atmosphere.

Renee Adoree has been chosen to play the leading role in the musical comedy "Rose Marie," recently adopted for screening.

"Paid to Love," with Virginia Valli and George O'Brien, has been scheduled for release soon. The drama is set in an imaginary kingdom and relates the romantic adventure of a prince and a charming dancing girl in Paris.

NEGLIGEE HAS PERSONALITY

IN the clothes she wears in public, milady may feel that she must conform to the conventions. She is apt to think what is suitable for the various activities—walking, shopping, calling and for evening—and to adapt her tastes to meet the accepted rules. In her boudoir however she may express her personality to the full and when she chooses her negligee she may indulge whatever fancy she prefers.

Above are pictured two negligees that have that elusive thing called personality. At the left is a very simply designed kimono made of metal brocade. Marcella Day wears it over some new and very attractive lingerie.

More intricate and equally attractive is the one on the right—worn by Marian Nixon. It is made of red and white striped cashmere and is trimmed with red crepe.

"Dear Jerry," she said softly as she gave him both her hands, standing so close to him that the perfume he had been at such pains to find for her wrapped him about like an exquisite invisible cloak. "It's awfully sweet of you to come to take me to the train. I'm going to miss you—terribly!" She hesitated before the last word, then dropped it gently like a shy caress.

"Then you're going to Lake Minnetonka?" Jerry demanded savagely.

"Don't be foolish, Jerry," she chided him softly. "Of course I'm going to Minnetonka! My reservations are already made. I've spent hundreds and hundreds of dollars for clothes which I couldn't possibly wear at a less exclusive resort—"

"Oh, shut up!" Jerry commanded her angrily. "You know why I don't want you to go! My God, you must know, or you're blind or a fool, or both. You said you couldn't bear for me to print those advertisements with your pictures. There are one or two things I can't bear either, Vera Cameron, and one of them is to see you carry out this insane scheme of yours to trap a rich man into marrying you, posing as a society girl—" His voice broke and he flung up an arm.

"You shan't talk to me like that!" Vera cried passionately. "I'm not trying to trap a rich man into marrying me! I'd rather he was a poor man—a salaried man working for his living, doing something in which I could help him with my business training. I tell you I don't care for his money and his social position. I only want him because I love him—"

"Don't say that!" he struck out at her sharply, his voice rough with agony. "You're talking like a matinee idol worshiping flapper. You don't know what love is! You've seen him only once. You know nothing about him—"

"How do you know?" Vera's green eyes widened in angry amazement. "I've never told you—"

"But Flora did when she saw what was happening to me," Jerry told her savagely. "Tried to keep me from making a blankety blank fool of myself by putting me wise to the fact that you were already dead gone on another man—"

"She was very unselfish," Vee Vee interrupted with cold sarcasm.

"Oh, for God's sake let's not quarrel, Vee Vee," Jerry begged with sudden humility. "I love you too much to hurt you—"

"You—love me?" she echoed in a small voice. "Jerry—I'm sorry—"

"Oh, I don't want your pity!" He flung a furious hand across his eyes. "You can't tell me you didn't know I loved you! Why, for God's sake, did you think I was devoting every minute of my spare time to you and a lot that belonged to the firm as well? Helping you choose the right clothes, taking you out every evening to the theater and to dance—"

"I thought," Vee Vee interrupted coldly, "that you were doing it because you wanted to help me, because you were my friend, that you ... [illegible] ... perfecting the thing you had made—"

"And did you think for one minute that I was taking you ... [illegible] ... of you, Vera Cameron, because I loved you? I gave you these last three weeks because I was fool enough to believe that by constant ... with ... you could come to love me."

"I thought these last three weeks were a game that you were enjoying in the same way that I enjoyed it," Vee Vee said weakly, gripping ... a chair.

"A game? Oh, dear God!" Jerry groaned, dropping to the floor beside her and laying his head against her knees.

Vee Vee's slim white fingers fluttered to his head, hovered for a moment over that flaming mop of red curls as if she were afraid it would burn her, then dropped lightly upon it.

"Don't! I can't stand that!" Jerry flung up his head, sharply seized her caressing hand and crushed it against his grief twisted lips. "Vee Vee! Can't you love me a little, darling? I'll be so good to you, understand you so well. I can make you happy, Vera—why, you're mine. I created you! You belong to me."

"If you had loved me before—when I was homely and no help to you—or any man—to ... [illegible] ... to release me from the inhibitions that make every homely girl miserable—" she began jerkily.

"I'm not going to lie and pretend that I fell in love with you the moment you walked into my office," Jerry said slowly, heavily, the hand that he had kissed held tight against his pounding heart. "But I can tell you truthfully that I began to love you when I snatched off your spectacles and looked into your eyes. I didn't know it then, of course, but I had never so wanted to help anyone in my life. And I could have loved you as you were then as well as I do now. I performed a miracle for your own sake—"

"And for advertising purposes," Vera reminded him, trying to release her hand.

"I'm an advertising man," Jerry admitted simply. "My work comes first and you wouldn't have the slightest respect for me if it didn't. I saw a chance to do something really big for the firm. You're a business woman; you ought to be able to understand my feeling toward my work."

"Oh, I do!" Vee Vee spoke wickedly. "But today I asked you to do something for me that is of vital importance to me. I told you that it would cause me agonies of shame to have my pictures strewn all over the country to advertise Peach Bloom Cosmetics. I asked you to suppress those ads, to substitute a professional beauty for me—a girl who would like that sort of thing—and you refused. Yet you say you love me."

"I do love you. I think you knew that. And when I tried to make a bargain with you, named one condition on which I would agree to throw down the firm, you refused. I may as well tell you now that if you had met that condition I would have been forced by my own conscientious scruples to resign from the Peach Bloom Company—"

"Resign?" Vee Vee echoed blankly.

"Resign, certainly. Do you think I could accept money from the company after I had thrown them down for personal motives? Oh, I could get something else easily enough! I'm one of the three best advertising men in the business! Oh, you can grin if you want to! I admit I'm no shrinking violet when it comes to rating myself in a business way. I wouldn't be on a twenty-five thousand dollar salary at the age of twenty-nine if I were. If you had accepted my condition I should have had every hope of winning you for my wife, and of course I don't want my wife's picture smiling up at every man that thumbs through a magazine. But—don't interrupt, please—if you are not even willing to give me a chance, if you insist on keeping our relationship on a business basis, I'm going to hold you to the letter of your bargain."

"You are certainly making yourself very plain," Vera told him with cold fury. "And now that you know you can't bribe me into marrying you, you are going to keep your precious job and humiliate me—"

"Bribe you into becoming my wife?" Jerry shouted, springing to his feet. "My God! And yet you say I've made myself very plain! Haven't you sense enough to know that Jerry Macklyn wouldn't marry any woman in the world, no matter how much he loved her, if she didn't love him as much as he loved her? I love you, Vera, and if you can't love me that's an end of the whole thing. I—I guess I'd better be going."

"Goodby, Jerry. I don't suppose I shall see you again." Vee Vee rose, found his hat for him and offered it unsmilingly.

"I suppose that means that you expect to be married," Jerry retorted bitterly. "Well—good luck."

"I hope I shall," Vee Vee said simply. "I—I really love him, Jerry, even if I have only seen him once. And if I fail, of course I shall go back to Peach Bloom at ... [illegible]. I'm not so utterly selfish as you think, Jerry."

She felt that she had told him goodby forever, but she was to see him again that evening. She was settling her things in her section of the Pullman car and listening with apathetic ears to her aunt's last minute instructions as to how to play the love game, when Jerry Macklyn came charging breathlessly down the aisle.

"I forgot something this afternoon," he panted. "Nearly broke my neck and all the traffic laws getting here. Here's a note, and you're not to open it unless you find yourself in a jam. No, I can't tell you what I mean, but you may find out. ... I hope you won't, but if what I'm thinking of happens, as Flora ... [illegible] ... that the information in this letter will help you. Goodby again and good luck."

"Oh, Jerry, I'm so glad you came," Flora Cartwright smiled at him. "I'm all at loose ends this evening—not a thing in the world to do. Shall we go somewhere for supper and a dance or two? ... Jerry," she wheedled.

"Sure. Great idea," Jerry agreed as if delighted.

Vera watched the two of them—Jerry's tall broad figure with Flora's small dainty body as close behind it as possible, hurrying down the aisle of the Pullman car, and for the first time she knew the sharp stab of jealousy.

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Phil Veritzen as a Lover

NEVER since my first acquaintance with Lillian in the days when I so sorely misjudged her, has anything which she said or did repelled me. I have come to look upon her as one whose wisdom is only equalled by her goodness, and I rarely have doubted the soundness of anything she said.

But there was something in the nonchalance with which she told me of her belief that Philip Veritzen would fall for me hard if he ever saw me, which turned me fairly cold with the apparent callousness of her viewpoint. Yet experience has taught me never to judge Lillian's attitude until she has entirely finished with a subject. She is so abrupt, so forceful as well as so careless in her manner of speech that it often camouflages purposely, I think, her real meaning.

That she saw my bewildered resentment I realized when she came over to me, took me by the shoulders and gave me an exasperated little shake.

"Let me remind you of an old and trite but most pertinent aphorism," she said, and there was that in her voice which made me think of the flick of a whip. "It concerns the impossibility of possessing one's cake and eating it at the same time. If you wish to lead a life where no problems of this sort ever will come near you, resign your position at once and go nowhere, socially or on business, unless you are strictly chaperoned by Dicky or your mother-in-law. After the years have passed over your head and you are comfortably in your fifties, with a waist line to correspond, you may return to any profession you choose with the assurance that you will be troubled by no emotional problems.

"But as long as you have that combination of good looks and gray matter above your ears, which an inscrutable Providence has decided to bestow upon you, let me assure you that if you stray beyond the little home nest into the great crowded spaces of the professional world you can't escape meeting an occasional gentleman with a roving eye who has to be taught, gently or firmly, according to his type, that the roving eye is not to come to rest on you."

I stirred uncomfortably under the ... little ... and under the mocking eyes which pointed it. Lillian ... changed her tone ...

"Don't misunderstand me, girl," she said, ... "If you were going to face any real problem, one which would have an unpleasant memory ... [illegible] ... very different advice ... Philander ... [illegible]

S... kind of things ... a smallish ... fast ... living ... everything ... contract which ... Dicky ... Lillian ... [illegible]

But if ... turn that Veritzen ... [illegible] ... In the morning ... [illegible]

At my assent she turned out the light and ... long after she was asleep I lay pondering ... the strange things she had told me.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS CONVENTION REPORT

Jesse H. Mason Gives Account of Proceedings at Ostend, Belgium

A report of the international convention of Rotary clubs held at Ostend, Belgium, where he represented the local club was given by Jesse H. Mason, Marion school superintendent, at the luncheon of the club held at the Hotel Harding at noon yesterday.

International peace was the keynote of the convention which was attended by representatives of 85 per cent of all of the Rotary clubs of the world and by representatives from 39 of the 40 nations of the world which have Rotary clubs, Mr. Mason stated.

One outstanding feature of the convention, he reported, was development of evidence that the Rotary club is not an idle luncheon club but a world force that is growing by leaps and bounds and which through the promotion of Rotary clubs will play a big part in the bringing about of universal peace.

WHY USE AN EXIDE?

The manufacture of Exide automobile batteries dates back to 1911, when an Exide started and lighted the first electrically equipped car. The Exide was a quality battery then, and through the years it has steadfastly maintained this reputation.

Today millions of car owners use the Exide because it can be depended upon to last an unusually long time and to cost little or nothing for upkeep. And the Exide built for your car is made by the world's largest manufacturers of storage batteries for every purpose. This leadership plainly indicates that the public has found Exide Batteries to be batteries of decided merit.
